

Kaltenborn - Evjenth OMT

2019 Global Conference - June 7 - 9, 2019

Enhancing the Human Movement Experience
Through Manual Therapy, Exercise and Education

Kaltenborn-Evjenth OMT

Hosted by Oakland University's OMPT Program

Founded in 1989 through the collaboration of Oakland University faculty, Freddy and Traudi Kaltenborn and Olaf Evjenth. The OMPT Program and faculty at Oakland University have educated hundreds of advanced OMPT clinicians and over a thousand physical therapists in the Kaltenborn-Evjenth Concept.

Conference Overview

KEOMT - 2019 Global Conference - June 7 - 9, 2019

June 6th - Pre-Conference Course

Free for up to 50 conference participants on a first come basis. This pre-conference course will focus on core features of the Kaltenborn-Evjenth concept. Join Freddy Kaltenborn, John Krauss and key KEOMT International Teachers as they reveal advances in theory and practice within the concept. Be sure to select this option when registering if you would like to attend this outstanding educational opportunity.

June 7th - Conference Day 1

Focus on research: We will start our conference exploring the various levels of scientific inquiry carried out by our community of international experts. Educational sessions will provide indepth insight into the diverse nature of emerging evidence supporting the KEOMT concept. Lightning round presentations will feature rapid paced snapshots of KEOMT relevant research. The day will close with an opportunity to meet the KEOMT Exectuive and learn more about the KEOMT organization

June 8th - Conference Day 2

Focus on education & manual therapy: The second day of the conference will explore how education is used by teachers within KEOMT. Educational sessions will also include the management of hip dysplasia, temporamandibular dysfunction, integrating manual therapy and neurological approaches and an opportunity to see view cadaveric prosections at Oakland University's state of the art anatomy lab.

June 9th - Conference Day 3

Focus on manual therapy and exercise: The conference will conclude by connecting anatomy, pathology, and radiology to clinical presentations and manual therapy interventions. Educational sessions focusing on therapeutic exercise for the KEOMT trained therapist will also be presented.
